

Financial Recovery Technologies Company Background Information

Financial Recovery Technologies (FRT) is a Boston-based company serving the investment management community with a specialization in class action settlement recovery. The firm is dedicated to the recovery of client funds through a proprietary technology platform and expert processes.

Established in 2008, the firm is part of the Cross Country Group. The Cross Country Group and its member companies provide technology-enabled service programs across a broad spectrum of industries, including automotive, insurance, and financial services. Its companies serve a variety of corporate clients who have more than 75 million customers.

Financial Recovery Technologies brings together accomplished veterans in the areas of technology solutions, investment management, and financial leadership to meet the claims recovery needs of the investment management community. Its principals include financial consultants, information technology experts, and entrepreneurs in the financial services and investment management fields.

The firm brings a wealth of financial experience and industry relationships to every client engagement. The company's services include expertise in eligibility analysis, claims filing, disbursement auditing and client reporting. With more than $100 million in total recoveries to date, Financial Recovery Technologies provides a turnkey solution that allows its clients to fulfill their fiduciary responsibilities with transparency and accuracy.

Financial Recovery Technologies' success is a result of a combination of its proprietary, advanced technology and exceptional client service. Serving as a strategic partner to its institutional investor clients, FRT provides a turnkey solution to solving the lengthy and complex recovery process resulting from securities class action settlements. With investor activism on the rise, recovering available funds for clients has become even more critical than in the past.

The firm also has extensive professional experience and insight into the complexity of filing for and securing settlement funds in the international market. FRT has the unparalleled depth and breadth of knowledge to deal with both U.S. and non-U.S. suits including opt-in class actions and collective actions. No other class action recovery provider can match FRT's experience and insight into the growing complexity of the global class action market.
